When you are looking for a flattering outfit for your special occasion, one of the most important factors you must take into consideration is the color. In my opinion, purple is a stunning color which comes in a variety of different shades from the palest of lavenders and lilacs to the deep purples and violets and the grapes and wines. When it comes to purple, it is easy to connect it with signify royalty, so if you are dressing up for a special event why not opt for a regal color to wear. What is more, many celebrities would like to wear such color walking on the red carpet; personally I believe it's a very flattering color. The content below will show you several beautiful purple evening gowns.

Floor-length & halter

First of all, the long skirt is landed on the list of the best choice for formal evenings. It is a good idea to choose a style in deep purple. It is a design which is timeless and flattering for most mature females to highlight their femininity. The special neckline is sure to look great on tall women with wide shoulders. The attire with halter neckline is always in vogue with the development of the fashion. If you are suffering the puzzle of your big breast, it is totally unnecessary. The halter evening dress is sure to look great on you. Not only will it draw people's attention from your breast, but also it can make your bust line more charming.

Short in purple

For the events which are not so formal, there is no doubt that the short skirts in purple are ideal choices. At the same time, the short outfits come in several different styles including sheath, A-line, baby doll so that you have a wide range of options. According to your figure, you could find your fitted style. Generally speaking, whatever your age and favorite is, there is always one just tailored to you. For example, the knee-length gown can be worn well by slightly older people attended a cocktail party well. For the petite girls, the empire waist short outfit will flatter them well as the high waist line will create a tall look. The key is that you should make sure the style you are interested in can show off your best features and make your most charming side accented. In a general way, the cheap evening dresses will feature open back, low cut or side slit. Of course, for the juniors, they are exception.

It is worth noting that you should not ignore your skin tone and you had better ensure purple goes well with it. In addition, the color of your hairstyle should be taken into consideration, too. For instance, silver and purple is an absolutely stunning combo.
