

Article Side

Save Time, Save Money by Flying to Your Destination by Sanjana Singh

Article published on July 21st 2012 | Aviation

The aviation industry has changed the way people travel in India to a great extent. While the Indian economy is trying to reach global standards, many new airlines have joined the aviation bandwagon. Until a few years back, only the affluent class could afford to travel by air, but with prices coming to the reach of the common man, it has become possible to travel faster. With lifestyles becoming busier and income levels going up, travelers prefer to travel by air and save time and enjoy the comforts available.

Almost all major cities and all major airlines in India are well connected with Mumbai as it is the financial capital of India and believed to be the land of dreams. For cheapest flights to Mumbai, you can check out airlines like Indian Airlines, Jet Airways, and Kingfisher airlines, Spicejet, Indigo and Go Air. These airlines operate daily flights to Mumbai and some even have multiple flights from all major locations in India. With so many flights to Mumbai, you need not think much before you plan your ticket. All you need to do is compare the rates of all the airlines and book the cheapest one. All these airlines are mostly no-frill airlines and there is not much difference between the experiences amongst them. All you need to decide is the time that suits to reach Mumbai. Mumbai has two airports; one is the Chattrapati Shivaji International airport and Santa Cruz domestic airport which are located within a close distance to each other.

Flights to Bangalore are also available with the top airlines of the country such as Indian Airlines, Jet Airways, Kingfisher, Indigo, Go Air and Spicejet. Flights to Bangalore are generally full as a lot of techies travel to Bangalore on a regular basis. This is because Bangalore is the IT capital of India and all the major IT companies have offices here. Bangalore is also a very cosmopolitan city and people from all parts of the country come to find jobs here. Flights to Bangalore are available with all the major airlines and they run on a daily basis. If you want to save some money, it is best to go for round trip fares as all airlines offer discounts if you book a return flight also. Furthermore, the trend is that if you book your tickets much in advance, you might get cheaper fares than if you book at the last minute. Bangalore International Airport is one of the newest and the most advanced airports of the country and it is around 35 kms from the heart of the city.

Mumbai to Delhi is the busiest route in Indian air traffic. Mumbai to Delhi flights are available with all airlines with multiple flights daily. You can compare the rates of the Mumbai to Delhi flights on the internet and choose the best rates according to your trip schedule. Apart from the respective airlines website, there are websites that offer air travel at cheap and discounted rates for all airlines. Delhi airport has two terminals, so make sure you are aware of which terminal your Mumbai to Delhi flight will be landing to.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/aviation-articles/save-time-save-money-by-flying-to-your-destination.htm> - Article Side

Sanjana Singh - About Author:

You can get a flights to Mumbai and a flights to Bangalore from all the big names in the aviation industry at cheap and reasonable rates. a Flights in India are also available at lowest airfares, if you plan your trip well in advance.

Article Keywords:

flights to Mumbai, flights to Bangalore, Flights in India, cheapest flights to Mumbai, cheapest flights to Bangalore

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!