California movers are quite famous in their business and are also many in numbers. This is where lies the problem in selecting them as there are numerous fake or poor companies. Thus you should choose the company sensibly. There are certain criteria which should be adhered to by the company to get employed.

There are guidelines that have been established by the California Public Utilities Commission to help you select the best California movers. The company should prepare a detailed agreement before actually beginning the job and should hand it over to their clients at least two days before the work is begun. Here all the important details about the client should be clearly mentioned. Also to be mentioned are details about the moving company and guidelines about the moving of your items. The California movers company should provide you with a written estimate to you and answer all your queries till you are satisfied. They will check the items to be moved and then will calculate their charges. If the company commits about doing a certain job that is not mentioned in the agreement is illegal. If the company tries this process to make you happy, it is an indication that something is wrong.

California movers will provide you with the maximum charges to be paid. This will help the clients to calculate the maximum amount of money they need to pay. But if the clients ask to do some extra moving, then they can charge more. But obviously, that shouldn't be any random amount of money but as per the charges set by the company in normal case. They must also carry the products providing utmost protection and should bear the charges if any damage is done to the goods.
