Loyalty Card Program- encouraging clients to come back by James Blee

Article published on June 9th 2012 | Business

The idea of ploughing back money into a business keeps existing clients at the door. The question is how to retain the existing customers? The idea of inviting new customers at your doorstep can cost up to twenty times of the idea of retaining the already existing ones. Business houses reward the clients for being loyal towards the entity. In that case, chalk out a loyalty card program that puts forth the concept of incentives as acknowledgement of customers'™ faithfulness towards your entity.

Encouraging your Clients in coming back

Make the right strategies to ensure that the loyalty card program works successfully. The amount that is offered on the plan depends upon the growth of your business. The cards or tags work by swiping through the terminal so as to help customers accrue some points each time they do shopping. Now, when the client opts for shopping, he gets some amount of cash accumulated that adds value.

On behalf of your business, add as much amount as possible that you deem reasonable on the plan. For instance, a beverage shop would like to reward $10 for $100 purchase from the store. Business houses have the scope of customizing reward levels according to annual purchase of the clients.

The bottom-line is to keep track of every step of everything that is happening according to the plan. It is required to register all the reward money on the reward website. Eventually you will get a report out from the site, that will list the names of customers, address, the amount, and owner of the card.

The plan strategically helps in promoting the brand and bringing profit over and over again. It is considered as a proper promoting strategy that ought to be planned in a disciplined way. Once the plan is done effectively, the loyalty card program undoubtedly encourages clients to come back and stay loyal to the business house.
