It has been a few months since reports of wholesaledeals.co.uk scam started doing the rounds, mostly on dubious internet forums and wholesale sites. These stories " purportedly about wholesaledeals.co.uk scams " do not hold much water.

Knowledgeable buyers do not give them much importance. They have used Wholesale Deals, and they have used other scammer sites prior to that; so, they know the difference. They have used wholesaledeals.co.uk reviews to demolish all stories of wholesaledeals.co.uk scam.

Why Scam Stories

Wholesaledeals.co.uk scams are the result of unfair trade practices. We all have known dirty rivals at some point in our lives. The classmate who would steal our notes, the professor who would steal their student's ideas, the boss who would steal our credit, they were all using unethical strategies to destroy their rival and give themselves a leg up.

The rivals of Wholesale Deals, who are the ones running fraud sites that extract money from unsuspecting buyers and never give the promised product, are the ones behind this string of wholesaledeals.co.uk scam reports. They try to steal ideas from Wholesale Deals whenever possible. When that is not possible, they do what they can, to destroy the reputation of Wholesaledeals, in the form of anonymous stories of wholesaledeals.co.uk scam.

To look at the bright side, all this attention means that Wholesale Deals must be hurting the fraudsters in some way. What better way to hurt them than stealing their customers " the very people cheated by the scammers who used unethical, dishonest, and lowbrow tactics like showing them one product and shipping them something completely different (and flawed); asking for fees even where no fee is due; fixing hidden charges for just showing a product line, promising a website free of cost and charging them the earth for monthly hosting.

Unbelievable

Wholesaledeals.co.uk scam stories cannot honestly say that this site indulges in any of these scam practices. Basically, every allegation of wholesaledeals.co.uk scam falls flat because:

" Wholesale Deals is not a shamelessly promotional gig. It does not lure buyers through promises it does not fulfil. Wholesaledeals.co.uk scam stories fail to account for the unique features such as deals guarantees, and verified supplier directory.

" Wholesaledeals.co.uk scam stories cannot be independently verified; one must remember that defaming people and organizations is particularly easy over the internet. Low accountability and anonymity provide the perfect cover to business rivals and people who have an axe to grind.

" Wholesaledeals.co.uk scam reports have been discredited by genuine users. People who regularly use the site are all praise for it. Many wholesaledeals.co.uk scam reports originate with people who have never used the site. More often than not, these false reports are circulated by business rivals.

" Wholesale Deals offers unmatched product ranges at heavy discounts. On this site, you will find jewellery, clothing, electronics, computers, and everything else at prices that are a fraction of their retail price. You can sell them even on eBay, the mother of all affordable products' sites, and still make a profit. Wholesale Deals is the first wholesale directory to list the retail price on eBay along with the product descriptions. Copycats have tried to do the same, but nothing beats the original.
