

Article published on January 21st 2012 | Destinations

Australia is a country that is known to offer work to non-Australian residents. Thus, no doubt every year thousands of people flock in Australia to work. In order to work in Australia you need Australian work visas. With many applicants coming every year to work in Australia, the process of getting the visa might be a bit complicated. But if you are aware of the requirements of Australian work visas then the complications can be minimised a lot.

Some of the basic requirements for a work visa include that the applicant must be at least 18 years old and not over 45 years of age. However, one must remember that this age limit varies depending on the type of Australian work visa. For example in case of Australian working holiday visa the age limit is from 18 to 30.

The applicants must meet the required health and character requirements along with passing Skilled Visa points test. In the recent times changes have been made by the Department of Immigration and Citizenship to skilled migration program. The change has also made the applicants confused.

After changes were made job order has emerged as one of the most important aspects. Job order is a document issued by labour department on behalf of requesting region or employer declaring that there is demand for that particular position applied for. Previously, there was a bit relaxation when it comes to job order. Majority of the applicants at that period can go through the process while waiting for the issue of job order.

Australian work visa are of different types like employer sponsored workers visa, professionals and other skilled migrant visa and working holiday makers visa. Among all these types of visa let's learn more about the Australian working holiday visa requirements and eligibility.

As already mentioned Australian working holiday visa is a kind of work visa which is mostly preferred by young people who want to visit Australia for the purpose of holidaying. This visa allows the holders to work while visiting Australia thereby giving holiday makers a chance to take care of their travel expenses. In this visa also there has been some changes made that includes Papua New Guinea and Argentina to include in the list of reciprocal working holiday countries.

One of the first requirements of the Australian work holiday visa is the applicant must be between the age group of 18 and 30 years without any dependent children. The applicant must also be an eligible passport holder of reciprocal countries and must have a year of at least 1 year till passport renewal. The applicant must also show proof to adequate funds for the first part of their stay in Australia.

The applicants of working holiday visas must provide both character and medical documents to prove that the applicant is fit to fly and have no substantial criminal record. The applicant must remember that in case they wish to work in health care industry medical examination is must and might have to undergo HIV/Hepatitis B/Hepatitis C testing.

Obtaining Australian work permit would not be difficult at all if the applicant knows the eligibility and seeks the help of professional visa service. Please visit our site for more information : <http://www.australian-tourist-visas.com/>

<http://www.articleside.com/destinations-articles/requirements-of-australian-work-visas.htm> - Article Side

Shaz Memon - About Author:

Art Vandelay is an expert in a Australian work permit . He provides tips and information related to Australian working holiday visas.

Article Keywords:

Working Holiday Visas, Australian Work Holiday, Australian Working Holiday Visas, Australian Work Visas, Australian Work Permit, Australia Working Holiday

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!