Article published on January 6th 2012 | Education

Dear Potential EMT student,

Update your Face Book status to this "FB friends: I am taking EMT courses online 2 better myself! Don't h8 while I get my study on!" • Indeed potential student, if you're interested in Massachusetts course, you can now enroll in classes online!

EMT courses online provides the same education as a traditional classroom course. The biggest difference is the student will attend class via the internet, from the comfort of home or office. The virtual classroom is interactive, in real time, and with a live instructor providing verbal lectures and moderating a class chat screen. Classes are also archived for review and study.

Online courses are created with the goal of reaching prospective students who have the desire to be an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) but are unable to attend traditional classroom training. Online classes require a computer, an internet connection, and the passion to attend class from the comforts of home! Are you a busy Mom or Dad who can't neglect responsibilities at home to spend precious hours in a learning facility? Or a single Male or Female who has to work 5 or more days a week to make ends meet? Perhaps you live in a small town that doesn't have a convenient EMT school?! Whatever the circumstance, consider Massachusetts EMT course to meet your educational goal!

Training to be an EMT online is similar to conventional classroom training in many ways: The same textbook, powerpoint, and lecture material are used by the instructors and distributed to the students. There is always a professional, knowledgeable, and trained staff Instructor leading the class. Students are expected to be punctual, courteous, and professional. The virtual classroom is managed similarly to the physical classroom with plenty of student interaction, testing and quizzes, and screen presentations all taking place in a learning environment.

EMT classes online are divided into two very important portions. The first part is class attendance via the internet, utilizing a computer's speakers, microphone, and keyboard for asking questions and participating in chat discussions. For even better listening and less background noise distraction, a headset is recommended. The second part is physical attendance in labs to learn and practice hands on EMT skills. This includes application of a cervical collar and long spine board, bandaging and splinting traumatic injuries, and assembling and administering nebulized breathing treatments and other medications. These interventions will be introduced online, but practiced in lab stations.

If your passion is to help people but a demanding schedule is preventing you from going to school, consider training for EMT certification online! Join prospective students like yourself from around the globe and be part of the passionate field of pre-hospital medicine. Before long, you'll be updating your Facebook status again: "Start my first job as an EMT 2morrow! So excited! Can't wait 2 make difference and help people!" •
