Student life is the creamiest part of life. All the fun, student activities, learning, and teachers have a special place in heart. School is the place where we make friends for lifetime. These unforgettable memories are the ones, which we cherish for the rest of our life. As the student, grow in terms of their age, their activities also change accordingly.

In school, a student activity is limited in between home and school. However, when he enters into college life, he gets to see the original and unseen aspects of life. One gets to do many student activities, which one has not done before. Like many students join student politics in order to fulfil their political ambitions. Student's politics is the basis of politics wherein the students can learn the intricacies of the profession and the tricks of the trade with complete understanding. In India, student's politics is very huge comparing to other nations. Various political parties choose the aspiring politicians from these universities. For example, Delhi universities elections are seen with keen interest by the politicians and are covered by the national media with a lot of hype thrown in it.

If we talk about college campus, campus activities have a huge impact on the student's mind. There are various kinds of campus activities, which a student does in the campus as various games are played like quizzes, debates, team building activities, skits, various sports competitions like swimming, race etc which helps in the student's overall personality development.

Apart from that, students are given different kind of projects to do so that they can research on a particular topic with interest. In management schools, the students are made to undergo summer internships so that they have some kind of corporate experience under their belt before sitting for campus interviews.

The more students participate in their campus activities, the more they get to learn about the important aspects of their life, and ultimately it helps in future.
