Dr. Tomshack also credits his late father, Michael Tomshack, who was a lifelong salesman, manager and entrepreneur, with helping to make HealthSource so successful.

At the age of 37, Dr. Tomshack retired from active practice and started building multiple offices watching three more practices rocket to success. It was Dr. Tomshack's goal to see that people were getting the care they needed within the most progressive and professional environment.

Many of Dr. Tomshack's business principles and vision for HealthSource Chiropractic and Progressive Rehab have come from his time studying other industries, always keeping a watchful eye for what worked best in each business. His goal has always been to improve the way his offices are run with the goal of doing what is best for each patient.

With the realization that he had a successful combination of progressive treatment standards and business systems that were unmatched in chiropractic care, Dr. Tomshack began the steps of building a true franchise opportunity that would benefit other chiropractors and patients all across the United States.

HealthSource Chiropractic and Progressive Rehab was launched in April of 2006. Since then it has become the fastest growing franchise business opportunity in chiropractic today, helping to build hundreds of successful offices all across the country.
