The natural freshness from the wilderness. The bright colours and the rich textures from the heart of the wild. The natural aroma and the finish just like they have been made to order. All these adjectives will fall short when one tries to explain the experience with the prunes. Prunes are an exclusive offering from the laminates that are rich and luxurious. And when these rich and luxurious prunes enter your living room, freshness and luxury exudes out of every corner.

Today, we will tell you how to do up your house with the prunes and make your living room come alive. Prunes are a textured laminate variety that has been manufactured after seeking inspiration from the nature and the wilderness. This textured laminate when used in the living rooms, brings alive every corner of the space making your living room radiate a look of richness and depth.

Prunes textured laminate are generally the first choice of those who love dark and natural shades. Since the inspiration of this variety of laminate is nature and the wilderness, all the shades and the finish exude the aura of nature and its glory in the best possible manner.

For living room decoration light brown textured laminate with oak textured laminates is an apt combination. This combination of laminates can be alternated on the walls as well as the sofa set. To further add the contrast with the prunes variety of laminates you can throw in some dark colour cushions like red and maroon. This will bring alive your sofa. For the walls you can choose to hang portraits of animals in their natural habitat with a tint of green and therefore they will prove the best fit for your wall laminate.

Prunes textured laminate can also bring life to your counter tops in the living room. You can go for white textured laminate for the counter top and display cutlery, small show pieces, and antique pieces picked from different parts of the world. Your counter tops are the safest and the best place for display as they keep dust away and with their different textured laminate combination, accentuate your display products.

At Greenlam, we assist you in building a decor with distinguished and nature friendly furnishings. So what more do you want? These are quick simple tips on how you can do up your living room with the help of prunes and make your space a stylish one! Just go grab this opportunity and try out.
