Justin Harrison, World Class Global Marketing Guru for Now and for the Future by Tracy Narvaez

Article published on March 2nd 2012 | Internet Business

Justin Harrison kicked off his career in 1999. A native of South Africa, he has travelled all around the globe networking one to one with other leaders in the field of internet marketing and learning new strategies for expanding his business empire. Justin shares his wealth of knowledge via his blogs and websites about business, marketing, search engine optimization and even weight loss.

Au fait with the importance of social networking, Harrison is active on the major sites, Twitter and Facebook. He extends his reach beyond the websites with an engaging personal touch, relating to people on an informal level. He has 35,000 followers on Facebook, with whom he shares his ideas and insights on an accessible level and in a down to earth manner. His generosity with his business advice free of charge has contributed to his massive fan base.

Harrison openly confesses that the sphere of promoting business online is a tough nut to crack. Factual and realistic, his counsel is always based on personal experience. His honesty has helped foster the loyalty of his disciples. When Justin announced his intention to retire, they were totally supportive of his decision and left hundreds of comments on what was meant to be his last-ever blog post.

Twelve months after his retirement from blogging for business, Harrison made a comeback as a writer and resumed communicating his ideas and engaging with like-minded movers and shakers. He centers his blog posts around increasing online traffic, business and life itself. Each article is an eye-catching treasure trove of expert advice on how to develop a profitable online business.

In addition to his personal blog, Justin Harrison also hosts an informative blog claiming to be a worldwide industry leader with developments in New York, Hong Kong and London. His marketing techniques can help build your internet strategies and expand your online business through search engines and social networking.

His company works mainly with companies that have an annual turnover of 25 million dollars. Their approaches may be a bit rich for the small businessman. For smaller concerns, Harrison authors a personal blog filled with insight and ideas that they can relate to and then interpret and incorporate into our own business strategies.

For advice on how to expand your social networking presence, take a look at Justin's website about socializing. Marketing using social networking media is growing more and more competitive. This presents a major challenge to gaining an edge over the competition. Consulting his social media team can help you increase your numbers of followers and promote your brand.

Justin Harrison is a highly skilled and very influential internet marketer. Using a multiplicity of web sites, he skilfully manages to reach any audience from the neophyte or small fry to the major multi-national players. Increasing profits, website monetization, social networking, Harrison has done it all. Read his blogs and learn as much as you can about one of the top internet marketing experts of our day.
