India is a lively country with varied cultures living together in harmony. Each and every state in India has its own unique and distinctive culture, beliefs, customs and dressing style. Likewise, Indian weddings are diverse and very flamboyant where every religion celebrates their weddings with traditional ceremonies and rituals mixed with a lot of fun and excitement. The bride and the groom on their wedding day wear designer clothes with traditional touch which have striking and colorful embroidery or Zari work compiled with heavy Indian gold and Kundan jewelry.

Jewelry is an integral part of Indian culture at the time of the wedding. It plays an important part in the journey of a girl to woman. Once a girl reaches the marriageable age, her parents start collecting wedding jewelry for her, it becomes an essential thing. As per the old Indian culture, it is considered as a dowry but now it's not like that. At the present time, the parents wish to give all these to their daughters as a love and blessing and not the groom's family.

Not only the traditional gold jewelry, now-a-days, most of the women prefer wearing matching jewels, be it of gold, silver, pearl, Kundan, or any other artificial stone. There are a lot of assortments available in the market with matching studs and bracelets that are given to the girl at the time of her marriage. Each and every woman dreams of wearing exclusive jewellery on her wedding day and designer and dazzling diamond ring on her engagement day.

Don't forget, it doesn't matter how expensive bridal jewellery you are going to get for the bride, however what matters is the style and design. Women have an everlasting love for wedding jewellery as it helps heighten their beauty. Jewellery such as wedding rings and other fashion jewellery are available exclusively for the brides.

These days, each and every woman has a nice collection of fashion accessories in her closet. You'll get to see varied styles of jewelry adorned by a bride.

The grace and elegance define a fashionable woman and her magnificence and beauty is noticeable by what she wears. Over and above clothes or anything else, jewellery is something that considered as the most important fashion accessory and defining part of a woman's wardrobe. A girl who is just in her adolescences would also wish to wear trendy jewellery but not anything gaudy or loud.

She likes to be simply at her best by just wearing the little embellishments that ooze her cuteness and charm as well as make her look sweet. Each and every girl waits for her wedding day to wear heavy, exclusive, dazzling, and expensive ornaments. Some jewelry styles that a bride wear on her wedding day or a married girl wear after her marriage are Nose ring, toe ring, anklet, Bangles, Wedding rings, Necklace, Maang Tikka, Armlet, earrings, Mangalsutra.
