Construction workers are at a high risk of being injured in a workplace accident. However, in the majority of cases, the amount of workers compensation provided by the company is far too low to pay for all the medical treatments, not to mention make up for the loss of income due to inability to work. Fortunately, personal injury attorneys can help you file a civil case against the company so that you receive adequate compensation for your injuries.

What all can a construction injury attorney new york help you with

A good personal injury lawyer can help you claim compensation for almost any kind of injury or illness that can be proven to have been caused either directly or indirectly due to workplace conditions. Some of the common types of compensation cases include those for:

- * Back and neck injuries, broken bones and lacerations that is a result of falls on a construction site
- * Burns or electrical injuries caused as a result of faulty tools or electronics
- * Automobile collisions at construction sites
- * Scaffold injuries
- * Crane accidents
- * Trench accidents
- * Amputation or crushing caused by construction equipment
- * Impalement, burns and other injuries taken by iron workers during welding and other iron work
- * Injuries that are a direct result of negligence on part of the site superintendent
- * Wrongful death due to construction accidents

How to search a construction injury attorney new york

A good way to find personal injury attorneys who can help file a successful compensation claim for construction site injuries is to visit the American Bar Association for referrals of personal injury lawyers in your area.

Go to the ABA consumers' web guide to legal help called FindLegalHelp.Org. The website contains a legal map of America that allows you to find a list of lawyers for your state. This makes it easy to find the nearest ABA-accredited personal injury law firms.

Call up at least three to four of these law firms and ask if they have any personal injury lawyers experienced in dealing with compensation suits for construction workers. Short-list the ones that say yes and set up a preliminary interview. Ask to speak to the attorney who will be actually trying your case should you decide to hire them. If satisfied, hire; else go to the next firm.

Always remember to choose competent personal injury attorneys. A low priced lawyer is not going to do you any good if they end up losing the case.
