Speeches for Parents' 30th Wedding Anniversary by Ashish Kunar

Article published on August 23rd 2012 | Shopping

Giving a 30th wedding anniversary speech for your parents may be quite a daunting task all things considered. This is because these are basically the people closest to us. They have given us birth, nurtured through the years we were incapable of doing anything on our own, fulfilled our wishes to the best of their abilities and have remained with us through thick and thin encouraging at every turn. They give unconditional love and this is the beauty of this relationship. In such a scenario it is quite natural to turn extremely emotional when you are asked to say something about your best friends forever.

Couples who have lived thirty years together are fine role models for their children. This is especially true now when we witness broken relationships at every turn. Give your parents the thumbs up in your speech for sticking with each other during the ups and downs which life is all about. A 30th wedding anniversary speech can include all the important milestone in your parents's lives and how you are witnessing their marital happiness through the years. Also include that while the marriage of your father and mother is a strong case in point regarding happily ever after, this does not mean they thought only about building relationship with each other.

Describe how being with them has helped your growing years and that the joyous surroundings at home brought on by a happy marriage have given you strength and a robust support to fall back on when the going gets tough. They are after all your best friends and just as they stand by each other, they do the same for you. Whatever thoughts you are out to share with others be completely sincere in your approach. Never should the listeners feel that you are exaggerating or putting on embellishments where none exist.

Do not make the speech completely solemn and for that matter do not turn it all into one big farce. Striking the right balance is what makes the wordings impactful for the listeners. Add humorous anecdotes and funny situations which bring out the human qualities of your parents. So that they come out as real person and just not idols you have put up on a pedestal in your heart. Making your audience laugh and turning them serious at turns along with feeling a host of emotions should be the target of your 30th anniversary speech.
