Article published on December 13th 2011 | Software

Search the web or your phone with a Search app. Get search results as you type. Analyze your Google Analytics data on your Android phone. App can give you a fast, intuitive way to visualize analytics. See daily, weekly and yearly stats for your page views, visitors, visits, bounce rate, time, and page per visit.

With a Payment app developed by an expert android app programmer, you can use your phone to take payments at expos, tradeshows and conferences. Swipe cards with the card reader. Customers can sign a touch screen to authorize their transactions. You can email receipts to customers at point of sale.

A Package Tracking App lets you track packages with any of several carries, such as FedEx, UPS, DHL, and USPS. The app can features notification alert options, sync tracking without typing on phone, and package route map display.

There are apps with geo-location features that enable you to share your location with others, such as co-workers or clients, as well as see their locations. Check in at places to let others know youâ€™ve arrived. Share, set, or hide your location at any time.

The Android App programmer harnesses the potential in every possible way to enhance user experience and improve the userâ€™s convenience. An Android app that scans bar codes can display the product details, its price, its origin, manufacturing and expiry dates, and several other useful elements of information to help the consumer make the right decision in the shortest possible time.

A straight bar code scanner app handles both UPC and QR codes. Share contacts, apps, and bookmarks via QR code.

An expense manager app helps manage your expenses on the go. Expert android app programmers can build apps to track expenses and incomes by week, month and year, and by category; schedule payments and recurring payments; get payment alerts; import and export account activities, and edit expense categories.

Capture business cards with an address book app that works in conjunction with the phoneâ€™s built-in camera. Snap a picture of a business card and the application automatically translates and imports all the contact information â€” name, phone numbers, emails and addresses into the address book, sorted and ready to use.

Translate text into any of a large number of different languages. Use the voice recognition software to speak the text and have it translated into any of several different languages. Listen to accurate pronunciation of translated text in various languages. You can copy-and-paste translated text and email it.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/software-articles/android-developers-programmers-business-apps-tools.htm - Article Side

Opensourcearticles - About Author:
DCKAP is a Fremont, CA based global technology services company delivering technology driven business solutions that meet the strategic objectives of the clients. For Free consultation and more informations on regarding a Android App Developers, android app development and a Android App Programmers.

Article Keywords:
android app developer, android app developers, android app programmer, android app programmers

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!